DANIELSON

Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Sheridan have returned from their wedding trip and are occupying an apartment for the summer at the clubhouse at Alexander's Lake.

Chestnut wood, stove lengths, $2.50; horse loads, $1.00; hay, $1.00.

Several Danielson motor parties were at New Bedford Friday to see the Yale-Harvard boat races.

Laurel C. Henderson, of Concord, N. H., is spending the week end with friends here.

Judge W. F. Woodward held a session of the town court at the office of A. G. Bill Friday morning to head a controversy between women living at the White Row threatened out.

The Knights of St. Alban's church are to spend next week in camp at Old Killingly pond, occupying Judge Shumway's camp site.

Citizens who have been nettled over highway conditions in Killingly will have a limited opportunity to make themselves heard next week at a special town meeting called for the purpose of considering improving Shawsheen street and to pass upon the making of appropriations for highway work during the two fiscal years ending June 30, 1921.

The town meeting will be held at the town hall, and it is expected that a large number of citizens will be present. The meeting will be held at 7 o'clock, and the first order of business will be the reading of the report of the highway committee.

Here's a new angle to the discussion that has been going on this week as to whether the Academy street crossing over the New Haven railroad tracks remains legally open. It was stated Friday that, more than a score of years ago, the town erected two posts across what was the westerly end of the roadway, near the north end of Bellett's building, and laid a heavy plank across them, thus closing the crossing to traffic. For a long time thereafter the railroad company was said to have kept the crossing open, so far as obstructing the passage over it siding with freight cars was concerned, and did not fail to daily keep open the crossing clear until the planking between the tracks was taken up. Thereafter the freight cars on the siding were set in a solid row.

The annual reception and dance arranged in honor of the senior class of Killingly High school by the Alumni association was held at the State armory Friday evening and marked the close of graduation week functions.

The usual large attendance came out for the event, those present including many from other towns. The class colors, black and gold, were in evidence in the decorations and especially conspicuous and attesting the loyalty of the graduates was the high school service flag, with 126 stars. Music was by the Good-year orchestra, 14 pieces.

The reception was from 2 to 3, when dancing began and continued until 4 a. m.

If employees of the Rhode Island company carry out their threat to strike at midnight tonight and there is no quick settlement of the matters in dispute, Danielson's freight cars will be cut off on Monday, and this means difficulties for local manufacturing concerns and merchants who rely on the use of the cars for making heavy shipments.

The men are asking for 75 cents an hour and for an eight hour day as the basis upon which they will work. The freight cars that come into Killingly from Providence deliver good in Danielson and to points along the line as far north as New Britain, as well as the passenger cars on the line, are operated between Providence and East Killingly by crews of the Rhode Island company.

East Killingly to Danielson and over other parts of the local divisions, all cars of the Rhode Island company are operated by crews of the Shore Line Electric Railway Company.

Under a new schedule of service, effective Monday, the Shore Line Electric Railway company, local patrons of the road will get what amounts to practically a new service. The road will be operated by crews of the Shore Line Electric Railway Company. This is what is known as the service and, it is said, will be continued from Monday.

MARKDOWN SALE OF SHOES AT THE KEYSTONE STORE—Rev. and Mrs. Marvin S. Stocking are leaving Monday for Columbus, O., to attend a big celebration there in honor of the success of the Methodist Centenary campaign. Rev. Mr. Stocking will represent the Danielson church at the big convention.

Criticism has been heard recently that some children are being permitted to come into possession of some valuable books in the library. It is not known that the young people make a general practice of seeking out volumes intended for more mature minds but there are instances of it. It is not known whether the young people get the books themselves or through others as their agents.

A proposal has been heard this week that when the roadway between Danville and Goodyear is rebuilt that a cement road be put in as tending to permanency. While the plan will appeal to many, there are hints that the expense attached to such a plan will cause some to question the advisability of it. There is general agreement that Goodyear is entitled to a very good road, in lieu of rail facilities for handling the very heavy trucking business that must go over that route. The distance from Danville to Goodyear is about two miles. If a cement road is put in it is likely that the state will pay three-quarters of the cost, the town paying the remainder.

An aeroplane that it believed was driven by an army flyer passed over the town of Danielson during Friday morning, high up and traveling fast.

Whatever may be the difficulties of obtaining work for former service men in the country, the country is not the case in Killingly. Practically all of the returned soldiers of this town are back at work, many of them in their old positions and there is employment of some kind for all of the soldiers who desire it.

Miss Pearl M. Wheeler, who has been manager of the Woolworth store in Danielson for the past year, concluded her duties at the local store the present week and is succeeded by H. B. Monroe who comes from Boston. Miss Wheeler while a resident of Danielson, formed a wide circle of acquaintances who much regret her departure from this place. After several weeks' vacation she will be connected with a store of the same company in a larger city.

Officials of the First National bank of this city are considering the remodeling of the institution's business home at the corner of Main and Front streets. It is now thought that the work, which may not be undertaken until fall, will include the extension of the building out to the inner edge of the sidewalk on the Front street side, the addition covering the little grass plot. Nothing definite has been decided as to design, though the remodeled structure may have a colonial front. A display of photographs of bank buildings in many cities and towns of the country has been arranged in the trustees' room at the Putnam Savings bank, which occupies the upper floor of the bank building, these to serve as suggestions for making the changes contemplated in the First National's building.

The First National bank of Putnam is one of the most prosperous in eastern Connecticut and the growth of its business has led to the need of working quarters for the bank's force.

What amounts to practically an hourly service between Central Village and West Thompson will be inaugurated over the Putnam division of the Shore Line Electric Railway company next Monday. This will be appreciated by the patrons of the road, who have found many difficulties in getting about under the two-hour service that has been in effect for months.

Corporal Stanley Shaw, who has served overseas with the 14th field artillery, has arrived in New York. He is expected to be sent to Camp Devens within a few days to be mustered out.

This school is constantly attracting more and more attention not only in Putnam but as well in all of the surrounding towns.

In the death of Mrs. Mary Goff, June 11, after an illness of several weeks, Canterbury loses a prominent and popular resident. Although born in Pachaug, town of Griswold, nearly all her life was spent in this town. She was of English descent, the daughter of William and Elizabeth Belcher Trowbridge. She attended the local school and later taught in Canterbury and Scotland. In August, 1884, she married Eli W. Goff. She was a member of the Westminster church and of Canterbury grange, of which she was chaplain at the time of her death. In recent years she had taken up nature study and had become unusually well informed upon the subjects of wild flowers, birds and trees. She enjoyed music and has always helped in that line in the different parishes. Her life stands forth as one of consistent Christian character.

The funeral was held Saturday at 2:30 at the church at Canterbury Green and was attended by a large number. Rev. T. E. Davies of Westminster, Rev. Marion H. Jones of Providence and Rev. E. A. Blake, all had part in the service. A poem which Mrs. Goff had selected was read by Dr. Blake. With her was sung by a nephew, Clement Bushnell. There were beautiful floral pieces. The bearers were Arthur, Clement and Dwight Bushnell and Irving Smith. Burial was in the Smith cemetery, where the grave ritual was conducted at the grave in an impressive manner.

Beside her husband, Mrs. Goff leaves a brother, Rev. Edward Trowbridge, of New Hampshire, a sister, Mrs. Emily Bushnell, of Canterbury, also four nieces and three nephews.

The lights on the stand were not of the best and it is hoped that the stand will be equipped with electric lights before the next concert.
